

OUT

5. From the place or house.
Out with the dog, says one; what cur is that? says another: whip him out, says the third. Shaksp.
6. From the inner part.
This is the place where the priests shall boil the trespas offering; that they bear it not out into the utter court, to sanctify the people. Ezek. xlv. 20.
7. Not at home.
In a state of extinction.
It was great ign'rance, Glosster's eyes being out,
To let him live; where he arrives he moves
All hearts. Shaksp. King Lear.
8. In a state of extinction.
This candle burns not clear; 'tis I must snuff it.
Then out it goes. Shaksp. Henry VIII.
9. In a state of exhaustion.
Bid thy ceremony give thee cure!
Thinkst thou the fry fever will go out
With titles blown from adulation. Shaksp. Hen. V.
10. Not in an affair.
Her candle goeth not out by night. Prov. xxxi. 18.
11. To the end.
When the butt is out we will drink water, not a drop before; bear up and board them.
Large coals are properest for dressing meat; and when they are out, if you happen to miscarry in any dish, lay the fault upon want of coals. Swift.
12. Loudly; without restraint.
So we'll live and hear poor rogues
Talk of court news, and we'll talk with them too,
Who loses, and who wins; who's in, who's out. Shak.
13. Not in the hands of the owner.
The knave will stick by thee: he will not out, he is true bred. Shaksp. Henry IV. p. ii.
14. In an error.
I am not so as I should be;
But I'll ne'er out. Shaksp. Ant. and Cleop.
15. At a loss; in a puzzle.
Hear me out;
He reap'd no fruit of conquest, but these blessings. Dryd.
16. With torn cloaths.
You have still your happiness in doubt,
Or else 'tis past, and you have dream'd it out. Dryden.
17. A way; at a loss.
The tale is long, nor have I heard it out;
Thy father knows it all. Addison's Cato.
18. It is used emphatically before alas.
At all I laugh, he laughs no doubt;
The only difference is, I dare laugh out. Pope.
19. It is added emphatically to verbs of discovery.
If the laying of taxes upon commodities does affect the land that is out at rack rent, it is plain it does equally affect all the other land in England too. Locke.
20. interject. An expression of abhorrence or expulsion.
Those lands were out upon leases of four years, after the expiration of which term the tenants were obliged to renew. Arbutnot on Coins.
21. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
In an error.
You are mightily out to take this for a token of esteem, which is no other than a note of infamy. L'Estrange.
22. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
As he that hath been often told his fault,
And still persists, is as impertinent,
As a musician that will always play,
And yet is always out at the same note. Rescormen.
23. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
According to Hobbes's comparison of reasoning with casting up accounts, whoever finds a mistake in the sum total, must allow himself out, though after repeated trials he may not see in which article he has misreckoned. Swift.
24. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Like a dull actor now:
I have forgot my part, and I am out,
Even to a full disgrace. Shaksp. Coriolanus.
25. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
This youth was such a mercurial, as the like hath seldom been known; and could make his own part, if at any time he chanced to be out. Bacon's Hen. VII.
26. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
With torn cloaths.
Evidences swore;
Who hither coming out at heels and knees,
For this had titles. Dryden.
27. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
A way; at a loss.
I never was out at a mad frolic, though this is the maddest I ever undertook. Dryden.
28. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Let all persons avoid niceness in their clothing or diet, because they dress and comb out all their opportunities of morning devotion, and sleep out the care for their souls. Taylor.
29. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
It is used emphatically before alas.
Out, alas! no fear, I find,
Is troubled like a lover's mind. Suckling.
30. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
It is added emphatically to verbs of discovery.
If ye will not do so, be sure your sin will find you out.
But out of order thrown, in air they join,
And multitude makes frustrate the design. Dryden.
31. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Not according to.
That there be an equality, so that no man acts or speaks out of character. Pope's View of Ep. Poem.
32. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Whoever doth measure by number, must needs be greatly out of love with a thing that hath so many faults; whosoever

OUT

33. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Out, out, hyena; these are thy wonted arts,
To break all faith. Milton's Agonistes.
34. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Out upon it, I have lov'd
Three whole days together;
And am like to love three more,
If it prove fair weather. Suckling.
35. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Out of, prep. [Of seems to be the preposition, and out only to modify the sense of of.]
1. From; noting produce.
So many Nereus and Caligulas,
Out of these crooked shores mult daily raise. Spens.
36. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Those bards coming many hundred years after, could not know what was done in former ages, nor deliver certainty of any thing, but what they feigned out of their own unlearned heads. Spenser on Ireland.
37. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Alders and ashes have been seen to grow out of clefts; but they manifestly grow out of clefts. Bacon.
38. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
He is softer than Ovid; he touches the passions more delicately, and performs all this out of his own fund, without diving into the sciences for a supply. Dryden.
39. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Not in; noting exclusion or dismissal.
The sacred nymph
Was out of Dian's favour, as it then befel. Fa. Queen.
40. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Will speak, though tongues were out of use. Shaksp.
41. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
The cavern's mouth alone was hard to find,
Because the path diffus'd was out of mind. Dryden.
42. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
My retreat the best companions grace,
Chiefs out of war, and statesmen out of place. Pope.
43. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Does he fancy we can fit,
To hear his out of fashion wit?
But he takes up with younger folks,
Who, for his wine, will bear his jokes. Swift.
44. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
They are out of their element, and logic is none of their talent. Baker on Learning.
45. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
No longer in.
Enjoy the present smiling hour;
And put it out of fortune's pow'r. Dryden.
46. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Not in; noting unfitness.
He is witty out of season; leaving the imitation of nature, and the cooler dictates of his judgment. Dryden.
47. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Thou'lt say my passion's out of season,
That Cato's great example and misfortunes
Should both conspire to drive it from my thoughts. Addison.
48. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Not within; relating to a house.
Court holy water in a dry house, is better than the rain waters out of door. Shaksp. King Lear.
49. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
From; noting extraction.
Juices of fruits are watry and oily: among the watry are all the fruits out of which drink is expressed; as the grapes, the apple, the pear, and cherry. Bacon.
50. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
From; noting copy.
St. Paul quotes one of their poets for this saying, notwithstanding T. G's censure of them out of Horace. Shilling.
51. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
From; noting rescue.
Christianity recovered the law of nature out of all those errors with which it was overgrown in the times of paganism. Addison's Freeholder.
52. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Not in; noting exorbitance or irregularity.
Why publish it at this juncture; and so, out of all method, apart and before the work.
Using old thread-bare phrases, will often make you go out of your way to find and apply them. Swift.
53. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
From one thing to something different.
He that looks on the eternal things that are not seen, will, through those optics, exactly discern the vanity of all that is visible; will be neither frightened nor flattered out of his duty. Decay of Piety.
54. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Words are able to persuade men out of what they find and feel, and to reverse the very impressions of sense. South.
55. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
That noble and most sovereign reason,
Like sweet bells jangl'd out of tune and harsh;
That unmatch'd form and feature of blown youth,
Blasted with extasy. Shaksp. Hamlet.
56. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
When the mouth is out of taste, it maketh things taste sometimes salt, chiefly bitter, and sometimes loathsome, but never sweet. Bacon.
57. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
By the same fatal blow, the earth fell out of that regular form wherein it was produced at first, into all these irregularities in its present form. Burnet on the Earth.
58. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
They all at once employ their thronging darts,
But out of order thrown, in air they join,
And multitude makes frustrate the design. Dryden.
59. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Not according to.
That there be an equality, so that no man acts or speaks out of character. Pope's View of Ep. Poem.
60. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Whoever doth measure by number, must needs be greatly out of love with a thing that hath so many faults; whosoever

OUT

61. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
by weight cannot chuse but esteem very highly of that where-in the wit of so scrupulous adversaries hath not hitherto observed any defect, which themselves can seriously think to be of moment. Hester, b. v. f. 27.
62. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
If ridicule were employed to laugh men out of vice and folly, it might be of some use; but it is made use of to laugh men out of virtue and good sense, by attacking every thing solemn and serious. Addison's Spectator.
63. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Beyond.
Amongst those things which have been received with great reason, ought that to be reckoned which the ancient practice of the church hath continued out of mind. Hester, b. v. f. 9.
64. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
What, out of hearing gone? no found, no word?
Alack, where are you? Shaksp. Lear.
65. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
I have been an unlawful bard, time out of mind. Shak.
66. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Few had the least suspicion of their intentions, till they were both out of distance to have their conversion attempted. Clarendon, b. viii.
67. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
With a longer peace, the power of France with so great revenues, and such application, will not encrease every year out of proportion to what ours will do. Temple.
68. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
He shall only be prisoner at the soldiers quarters; and when I am out of reach, he shall be released. Dryden.
69. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
We see people lulled asleep with solid and elaborate discourses of piety, who would be transported out of themselves by the bellows of enthusiasm. Addison.
70. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Milton's story was transacted in regions that lie out of the reach of the sun and the sphere of the day. Addison.
71. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Women weep and tremble at the sight of a moving preacher, though he is placed quite out of their hearing. Addison.
72. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Deviating from: Noting irregularity.
Heaven defend but still I should stand so,
So long as out of limit, and true rule,
You stand against anointed majesty! Shaksp.
73. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
The supreme being has made the best arguments for his own existence, in the formation of the heavens and the earth, and which a man of sense cannot forbear attending to, who is out of the noise of human affairs. Addison.
74. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Past; without; noting something worn out or exhausted.
I am out of breath:
—How art thou out of breath, when thou hast breath?
To say to me that thou art out of breath? Shaksp.
75. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Out of hope to do any good, he directed his course to Corone. Kneller.
76. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
He found himself left far behind,
Both out of heart and out of wind. Hudibras.
77. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
I published some fables, which are out of print. Arbut.
78. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
By means of.
Out of that will I cause those of Cyprus to mutiny. Shak.
79. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
In consequence of; noting the motive or reason.
She is persuaded I will marry her, out of her own love and flattery, not out of my promise. Shaksp. Othello.
80. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
The pope, out of the care of an universal father, had in the conclave divers consultations about an holy war against the Turk. Bacon's Hen. VII.
81. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Not out of cunning, but a train
Of atoms jelling in his brain,
As learn'd philosophers give out. Hudibras, p. ii.
82. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Cromwell accused the earl of Manchester, of having betrayed the parliament out of cowardice. Clarendon.
83. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Those that have recourse to a new creation of waters, are such as do it out of laziness and ignorance, or such as do it out of necessity. Burnet's Theory of the Earth.
84. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Distinguish betwixt those that take state upon them, purely out of pride and humour, and those that do the same in compliance with the necessity of their affairs. L'Estrange.
85. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Make them conformable to laws, not only for wrath and out of fear of the magistrate's power, which is but a weak principle of obedience; but out of conscience, which is a firm and lasting principle. Tillotson.
86. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
What they do not grant out of the generosity of their nature, they may grant out of mere impatience. Smalbridge.
87. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Our success has been the consequence of a necessary war; in which we engaged, not out of ambition, but for the defence of all that was dear to us. Athenbury.
88. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Out of hand; immediately; as that is easily used which is ready in the hand.
He bade to open wide his brazen gate,
Which long time had been shut, and out of hand,
Proclaimed joy and peace through all his state. Fa. Queen.
89. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
No more ado,
But gather we our forces out of hands,
And set upon our boasting enemy. Shaksp.
90. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
To deprive.
The members of both houses who withdrew, were counted deserters, and out of their places in parliament. K. Charles.
91. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
So many of their orders, as were out of their fair professions, would endeavour a re-entrance against those whom they account heretics. Dryden.
92. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Out, in composition, generally signifies something beyond or more than another.

OUT

93. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Out-fawn as much, and out-comply,
And seem as scrupulously just,
To bait the hooks for greater trust. Hud. p. ii. can. 3.
94. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
To OUTACT. v. a. [out and act.] To do beyond.
He has made me heir to treasures,
Would make me out-act a real widow's whining. Osway.
95. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
To OUTBALANCE. v. a. [out and balance.] To over-weigh; to preponderate.
Let dull Ajax bear away my right,
When all his days outbalance this one night. Dryden.
96. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
To OUTBAR. v. a. [out and bar.] To shut out by fortification.
These to outbar with painful pions,
From sea to sea he heap'd a mighty mound. Fa. Queen.
97. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
To OUTBID. v. a. [out and bid.] To over-power by bidding a higher price.
If in thy heart
New love created be by other men,
Which have their flocks entire, and can in tears,
In sighs, in oaths, in letters outbid me,
This new love may beget new fears. Dohne.
98. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
To OUTBIDDER. n. f. [out and bid.] One that out-bids.
To OUTBLOW. v. a. [out and blow.] Inflated; swollen with wind.
At their roots grew floating palaces,
Whose outblow'd bellies cut the yielding seas. Dryden.
99. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
To OUTBORN. adj. [out and born.] Foreign; not native.
To OUTBOUND. adj. [out and bound.] Destinated to a distant voyage.
Triumphant flames upon the water float,
And outbound ships at home their voyage end. Dryden.
100. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
To OUTBRAVE. v. a. [out and brave.] To bear down and disgrace by more daring, insolent, or splendid appearance.
We see the danger, and by fits take up some faint resolution to outbrave and break through it. L'Estrange.
101. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
I would out-stare the sternest eyes that look,
Outbrave the heart most daring on the earth,
To win thee, lady. Shaksp. Lear.
102. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Here Sodom's tow'rs raise their proud tops on high,
The tow'rs, as well as men, out-brave the sky. Cowley.
103. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
To OUTBRAZEN. v. a. [out and brazen.] To bear down with impudence.
To OUTBREAK. n. f. [out and break.] That which breaks forth; eruption.
Breathe his faults so quaintly,
That they may seem the taints of liberty,
The flash and outbreak of a fiery mind. Shaksp.
104. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
To OUTBREATHE. v. a. [out and breathe.]
1. To weary by having better breath.
Mine eyes saw him
Rendering faint quittance, wearied and outbreath'd,
To Henry Monmouth. Shaksp. Lear.
105. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
To expire.
That sign of last outbreathed life did seem. Spenser.
106. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
To OUTCAST. part. [out and cast.] It may be observed, that both the participle and the noun are indifferently accented on either syllable. It seems most analogous to accent the participle on the last, and the noun on the first.
1. Thrown into the air as refuse, as unworthy of notice.
Abandon soon, I read, the captive spoil
Of that same outcast carcass. Fairy Queen, b. ii. c. 8.
107. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
2. Banished; expelled.
Behold, instead
Of us outcast exil'd, his new delight
Mankind created. Milton's Paradise Lost, b. iv.
108. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
To OUTCAST. n. f. Exile; one rejected; one expelled.
Let's be no stoicks, nor no flocks,
Or so devote to Aristotle,
As Ovid, be an outcast quite abjur'd. Shaksp.
109. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
O blood-bespotted Neapolitan,
Outcast of Naples, England's bloody scourge!
For me, outcast of human race,
Love's anger only waits, and dire disgrace. Prior.
110. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
Love's anger only waits, and dire disgrace!
He dies sad outcast of each church and state!
To OUTCRAFT. v. a. [out and craft.] To excel in cunning.
Italy hath outcrafted him, Shaksp. Cymbeline.
111. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
And he's at some hard point.
O'UTCRY. n. f. [out and cry.]
1. Cry of vehemence; cry of distress; clamour.
These outcries the magistrates there shun, since they are readily hearkened unto here. Spenser on Ireland.
112. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
So strange thy outcry, and thy words so strange
Thou interpest, that my sudden hand
Prevented, spares. Milt. Par. Lost, b. ii.
113. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
I make my way
Where noises, tumults, outcries, and alarms
I heard. Denham.
114. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
2. Clamour of detestation.
There is not any one vice, incident to the mind of man, against which the world has raised such a loud and universal outcry, as against ingratitude. South's Sermon.
115. To a different state from; in a different state, noting disorder.
3. A pub-